

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking applicants for its new International Affairs Fellowship in Canada. The program aims to strengthen mutual understanding and cooperation between rising generations of leaders and thinkers in the United States and Canada. Fellowship awardees will spend between six and twelve months at a Canadian institution to deepen their knowledge of Canada.

The fellowship is open to mid-career professionals who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy and have an interest in U.S.-Canada relations, and awards a stipend of $95,000 for a period of twelve months (or a prorated stipend if the duration of the fellowship is shorter) as well as a modest travel allowance. The program welcomes applicants from a broad range of professional, academic, and personal backgrounds. Qualified candidates must be U.S. citizens.

Interested candidates can apply online by October 31. Official selections will be made by January, and the fellowship will commence in September 2017.
